Your settings tab has many options for you to personalize and protect your blog. This will cover only a few settings. Feel free to browse through all the settings when you have a chance. Here are a few options you have under basic settings...

1. Title - Change the title of your blog at any time...but the URL address will remain the same.
2. Description - A description can be posted on your blog to help clarify what/who your blog is intended for.
3. Privacy - Choose who can see your blog.

The Permissions section allows you more control over the accessibility of your blog.

1. Blog Authors - To add others that can author or post to your blog, click on “Add Authors” and type in their email address. It will send an email inviting them to join.
2. Blog Readers - Choose who is able to view your blog...anybody, people you choose, or authors only. Note that if you select “people you choose” they will have to log in each visit before they can view.

The Posts and Comments section lets you make choices about commenting on your posts.

- Who can comment? - Choose who can comment on your posts. It can range from anyone to only those who have permission to read the blog.
- Comment Moderation - Choose whether comments are published automatically or if they need to be reviewed first.
